

5th International Conference and Exhibition on Surgery & ENT

November 07-08, 2016 Alicante, Spain

Ramazi Datiashvili

New Jersey Medical School, USA

How I am trying to match aesthetic and functional requirements in reconstructive surgeries of the extremities

I will present my experience in reconstructive surgery/microsurgery of the open wounds of the extremities. Various flaps including free flaps will be demonstrated. Indications, technical aspects of surgeries and outcomes will be discussed. Particular attention will be paid towards matching aesthetic and functional requirements of the reconstructive surgery.

Biography

Ramazi Datiashvili has completed his graduation at First Moscow Medical Institute in 1972. After completing his Fellowship in General Surgery at the National Research Center of Surgery in 1974, he became Chief of the Microsurgery Department at the Moscow City Hospital #51. He has completed his PhD in 1978 and continued his academic and surgical carrier at the National Surgical Center in Moscow. In 1988, he has completed his Doctor of Medical Sciences, General Surgery Residency at the Mount Sinai Medical School in New York and then Plastic Surgery Residency at the University of Medicine and Dentistry, New Jersey Medical School. Currently, he is a Professor in the Division of Plastic Surgery, Department of Surgery at Rutgers University, New Jersey Medical School. He is certified by the American Board of Plastic Surgery and an active Member of the American Society of Plastic Surgeons, American Association of Plastic Surgeons, American Society of Reconstructive Microsurgery and other surgical societies. He is an author of more than 100 publications, including textbooks and articles in leading journals. He has received many awards and patents for his work.

datiasro@njms.rutgers.edu

Notes: