

Skin Care and Cosmetology

Darla Foster*

Journal managing Editor, Surgery: Current Research, Belgium

Corresponding Author*

Darla Foster

Journal managing Editor, Surgery: Current Research

Belgium

E-mail: leukemiares23@aol.com

Copyright: © 2022 Foster D. This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

Received: 03-Mar-2022, Manuscript no. SCR-22-16512; Editor assigned: 07-Mar-2022, Pre-Qc no. SCR-22-16512(PQ); Reviewed: 21-Mar-2022, QC no. SCR-22-16512(Q); Revised: 23-Mar-2022, Manuscript no. SCR-22-16512(R); Published: 30-Mar-2022, DOI: 10.35248/2161-1076.22.12(3).379.

Editorial

Cosmetology and skin science

Cosmetology deals with study and operation of hair styling, skincare, Cosmetics, manicures/ pedicures, on-permanent hair junking and endless hair junking processes and Skin Care is the vary of practices that support skin reliability, augment its look and relieve Skin conditions [1]. Practices that enhance look embrace the employment of Cosmetics, Botulinum, Exfoliation, Fillers, optic ray Resurfacing, small remotion, Peels, vitamin A medical aid. Skin care is a part of the treatment of crack mending, irradiation and a many specifics.

Beauty therapies

Beauty Remedy relates to the provision and operation, by trained hairdressers, of a wide range of treatments and ornamental ways. Utmost of you have heard the notorious saying that 'beauty is in the eye of the beholder'. Still, grounded on the steady fashionability of the beauty remedy assiduity, it seems fair to say that everyone needs a little bit of backing now and also.

You may well suppose that beauty remedy is ultramodern practice, but this isn't the case. In fact, humans have been fixing themselves in one form or another since they first arrived on the earth – giving rise to the range of professional beauty remedy services we've moment.

Skin disorders and diseases

Skin conditions are conditions that affect your skin. These conditions may beget rashes, inflammation, itchiness or other skin changes. Some skin conditions may be inheritable, while life factors may beget others. Skin complaint treatment may include specifics, creams or ointments, or life changes [2].

- Acne: It's caused when blocked skin follicles from a draw caused by canvas from glands, bacteria, and dead cells clump together and swell
- Raynaud's phenomenon: It's a complaint that affects blood vessels. It causes your body to not shoot enough blood to the hands and bases for a period of time
- Alopecia Areata: It's a condition that attacks your hair follicles (they make hair). In utmost cases, hair falls out in small, round patches
- Rosacea: It's a long- term complaint that causes crimsoned skin and pustules, generally on the face. It can also make the skin thicker and beget eye problems

Cosmetic surgery

Cosmetic surgery is a medical specialty that focuses on surgical and medical procedures to improve one's health and appearance. Any area of the head, neck, or body can be treated with cosmetic surgery. Cosmetic surgery is a possibility since the treated area performs well but is not cosmetically pleasing. Cosmetic surgery uses Botox, dermabrasion, face elevation, rhinoplastic therapies, lead pharoplastic procedures, and facial fillers.

- Breast growth or augmentation
- Cosmetic surgery of the face

Aesthetic practices and skin care

Aesthetic practice is defined as an area of run through involving "operations and other procedures that revise or change the appearance, colour, texture, structure, or position of fleshly features, which utmost would consider else to be within the broad range of "normal" for that person."

Scars, skin laxity, wrinkles, lunar, liver spots, excessive fat, cellulite, hair, skin pigmentation, and spider veins are among disorders that can be treated with aesthetic medicine. Dermatology, cosmetic surgery, and reconstructive surgery are all part of aesthetic medicine. Aesthetic medicine treatments include both surgical and non-surgical procedures (skin tightening, facial liposuction, breast implants, and radiation frequency ablation) (radio skin tightening frequency, non-surgical liposuction, chemical peel). Although aesthetic treatments are largely elective, they can significantly improve quality of life, psychological well-being, and social activities [3].

- Cryolipolysis
- Chemical Peels
- Mesotherapy injection

Cosmetic dentistry

Cosmetic dentistry refers to any dental procedure that enhances the appearance (but not necessarily the functioning) of teeth, epoxies, and/ or bite. It generally efforts on improving the colour, position, shape, size, alignment, and overall appearance of the teeth [4].

Cosmetic dentistry may include the following procedures:

- Bonding, porcelain veneers (laminates), crowns (caps), and gum grafts are all instances of the insertion of a dental material to teeth or gums
- The removal of dental structure or gums-enameloplasty, gingivectomy is two examples
- Teeth whitening (bleaching), laser whitening, and gum depigmentation are examples of procedures that do not add or remove dental materials, tooth structure, or gums
- Teeth straightening with an improvement in facial appearance braces and orthodontics.
- Conservative veneers and dental laminates
- Scaling

References

1. Millikan, E.L "Cosmetology, cosmetics, cosmeceuticals: definitions and regulations." Clin Dermatol 19.4 (2001): 371-374.
2. Lane, E.B., and McLean W.H.I. "Keratins and skin disorders." J Pathol J Pathol Soc G B Irel 204.4 (2004): 355-366.
3. Austin, E.R, et al. "The impact of skin care product sales in an aesthetic plastic surgery practice." Aesthet Surg J 40.3 (2020): 330-334.
4. Schmidt J.C and Tatum A.S. "Cosmetic dentistry." Curr Opin Otolaryngol Head Neck Surg. 14.4 (2006): 254-259.